CORRECTION

Transposed Data in a Table: In the Research Letter titled “Gastrointestinal Complications in Critically Ill Patients With and Without COVID-19,” published in the November 10, 2020, issue of JAMA, data were transposed in the Table. The median days on drip were 1 (interquartile range, 0–4.5) for patients with non–coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) acute respiratory distress syndrome (ARDS) and 9 (interquartile range, 4–15) for patients with COVID-19 ARDS. This article was corrected online.

Incorrect Unit of Measure: In the Original Investigation titled “Clinical Characteristics of 138 Hospitalized Patients With 2019 Novel Coronavirus–Infected Pneumonia in Wuhan, China,” published in the March 17, 2020, issue of JAMA, an incorrect unit of measure for D-dimer was reported in Table 2 and Figure 2. It should have been listed as ng/mL. This article was corrected online.

Guidelines for Letters

Letters discussing a recent JAMA article should be submitted within 4 weeks of the article’s publication in print. Letters received after 4 weeks will rarely be considered. Letters should not exceed 400 words of text and 5 references and may have no more than 3 authors. Letters reporting original research should not exceed 600 words of text and 6 references and may have no more than 7 authors. They may include up to 2 tables or figures but online supplementary material is not allowed. All letters should include a word count. Letters must not duplicate other material published or submitted for publication. Letters not meeting these specifications are generally not considered. Letters being considered for publication ordinarily will be sent to the authors of the JAMA article, who will be given the opportunity to reply. Letters will be published at the discretion of the editors and are subject to abridgement and editing. Further instructions can be found at http://jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/pages/instructions-for-authors. A signed statement for authorship criteria and responsibility, financial disclosure, copyright transfer, and acknowledgment are required before publication. Letters should be submitted via the JAMA online submission and review system at https://manuscripts.jama.com. For technical assistance, please contact jama-letters@jamanetwork.org.
