CORRECTION

Clarification of Conflict of Interest Disclosure: In the Letter to the Editor titled "Radiofrequency Denervation for Chronic Low Back Pain,"1 published in the December 12, 2017, issue of JAMA, an author’s conflict of interest disclosures required clarification. The disclosures for Sean Mackey, MD, PhD, should have read as follows: “Dr Mackey reported serving as president of the American Academy of Pain Medicine from 2014-2015, as a member of the American Society of Anesthesiologists Pain Committee from 2008-2019, and as a member of the advisory board of the American Chronic Pain Association (a nonprofit organization focused on patient education about pain), and reported receiving no compensation from these entities, and also reported receiving travel reimbursement from the American Academy of Pain Medicine, Tarsus Group, Neurovations, International Neuromodulation Society, and FDA-ACCTION to present pain research findings.” A letter of clarification has been published,2 and this article has been corrected online.

Data Errors: The Original Investigation titled “Association Between 2-Dose vs 3-Dose Hepatitis B Vaccine and Acute Myocardial Infarction,” published in the April 5, 2022, issue of JAMA,1 had data errors. In the primary analysis in the Abstract and Results section, the infinity symbol should have been negative. In the Results section, the standardized difference for age should have been −0.059 and the absolute rate difference per 1000 person-years for type 1 acute myocardial infarction should have been −0.19. In Figure 3, the column heads for the study groups were in the incorrect order. This article was corrected online.

Guidelines for Letters

Letters discussing a recent JAMA article should be submitted within 4 weeks of the article’s publication in print. Letters received after 4 weeks will rarely be considered. Letters should not exceed 400 words of text and 5 references and may have no more than 3 authors. Letters reporting original research should not exceed 600 words of text and 6 references and may have no more than 7 authors. They may include up to 2 tables or figures but online supplementary material is not allowed. All letters should include a word count. Letters must not duplicate other material published or submitted for publication. Letters not meeting these specifications are generally not considered. Letters being considered for publication ordinarily will be sent to the authors of the JAMA article, who will be given the opportunity to reply. Letters will be published at the discretion of the editors and are subject to abridgement and editing. Further instructions can be found at http://jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/pages/instructions-for-authors. A signed statement for authorship criteria and responsibility, financial disclosure, copyright transfer, and acknowledgment are required before publication. Letters should be submitted via the JAMA online submission and review system at https://manuscripts.jama.com. For technical assistance, please contact jama-letters@jamanetwork.org.
