Clarification of Wording in Medical News Interview: The Medical News & Perspectives article titled "White House Advisor Nahid Bhadelia, MD, MALD, on COVID-19 in Resource-Limited Nations—Undercounted Deaths, Vaccine Inequity, and More," published online October 5, 2022, included some unclear wording. In the fourth question, Dr Bhadelia’s response should have stipulated that registration of deaths due to COVID-19 range from “98% coverage [in parts of Europe]” to only 10% “in [parts of] Africa.” The article has been corrected online.

1. Abbasi J. White House Advisor Nahid Bhadelia, MD, MALD, on COVID-19 in resource-limited nations—undercounted deaths, vaccine inequity, and more. JAMA. Published online October 5, 2022. doi:10.1001/jama.2022.13663

Contributor Name Misspelled: In the Original Investigation titled “Effect of High- vs Low-Dose Tranexamic Acid Infusion on Need for Red Blood Cell Transfusion and Adverse Events in Patients Undergoing Cardiac Surgery: The OPTIMAL Randomized Clinical Trial,” published in the July 26, 2022, issue of JAMA, a name was misspelled in the Additional Contributions. “Chuntao Yu” should have been “Cuntao Yu.” This article was corrected online.

Guidelines for Letters

Letters discussing a recent JAMA article should be submitted within 4 weeks of the article’s publication in print. Letters received after 4 weeks will rarely be considered. Letters should not exceed 400 words of text and 5 references and may have no more than 3 authors. Letters reporting original research should not exceed 600 words of text and 6 references and may have no more than 7 authors. They may include up to 2 tables or figures but online supplementary material is not allowed. All letters should include a word count. Letters must not duplicate other material published or submitted for publication. Letters not meeting these specifications are generally not considered. Letters being considered for publication ordinarily will be sent to the authors of the JAMA article, who will be given the opportunity to reply. Letters will be published at the discretion of the editors and are subject to abridgement and editing. Further instructions can be found at http://jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/pages/instructions-for-authors. A signed statement for authorship criteria and responsibility, financial disclosure, copyright transfer, and acknowledgment are required before publication. Letters should be submitted via the JAMA online submission and review system at https://manuscripts.jama.com. For technical assistance, please contact jama-letters@jamanetwork.org.
