requires multiple perspectives, none of which can be captured in a single metric, and the method of most effectively informing patients regarding the value of a proposed lipid-lowering intervention may be best determined by that patient's concerned clinician.

Richard G. Bach, MD
Christopher P. Cannon, MD
Michael A. Blazing, MD

Author Affiliations: Cardiovascular Division, Washington University Medical Center, St Louis, Missouri (Bach); Brigham and Women’s Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts (Cannon); Duke Clinical Research Institute; Duke University, Durham, North Carolina (Blazing).

Corresponding Author: Richard G. Bach, MD, Cardiovascular Division, Washington University Medical Center, 660 South Euclid Ave, St Louis, MO 63110 (rgbach@wustl.edu).

Published Online: January 2, 2020. doi:10.1001/jamacardio.2019.5241

Conflict of Interest Disclosures: Dr Bach has received grants from Merck, CSL Behring, and MyoKardia paid to his institution and personal fees for serving on clinical event committees from Amaron Bio, Novo Nordisk, and Pharmacosmos. Dr Cannon has received research grants from Amgen, Boehringer Ingelheim, Bristol-Myers Squibb, Daichi Sanky, Janssen Pharmaceuticals, Merck, and Pfizer and personal fees for serving on advisory board from Aegerion Pharmaceuticals, Alnylam Pharmaceuticals, Amarin Corp, Amgen, Applied Therapeutics, Ascendia Pharmaceuticals, Boehringer Ingelheim, Bristol-Myers Squibb, Corvidia Therapeutics, HLS Therapeutics, Innovent Biologics, Janssen Pharmaceuticals, Kowa Pharmaceuticals, Merck, Pfizer, and Sanofi. Dr Blazing has received grants from Merck and personal fees from Sanofi.

CORRECTION

Incorrect Degree for Second Author in Byline: In the Original Investigation titled “Safety and Efficacy of Femoral Access vs Radial Access in ST-Segment Elevation Myocardial Infarction: The SAFARI-STEMI Randomized Clinical Trial,” published online January 2, 2020 in JAMA Cardiology, an incorrect degree was listed for the second author in the byline. The full name and degree for Dr Wells should have been listed as “George Wells, PhD.” This article was corrected online.