tation, tuition and debt reform to improve access to medical education, and diversifying medical school faculty.

Mytien Nguyen, MS
Mayur M. Desai, PhD, MPH
Dowin Boatright, MD, MBA, MHS

Author Affiliations: MD-PhD Program, Yale School of Medicine, New Haven, Connecticut (Nguyen); Department of Chronic Disease Epidemiology and Office of Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging, Yale School of Public Health, New Haven, Connecticut (Desai); Department of Emergency Medicine, New York University Grossman School of Medicine, New York (Boatright).

Corresponding Author: Mytien Nguyen, MS, MD-PhD Program, Yale School of Medicine, 333 Cedar St, New Haven, CT 06510 (mytien.nguyen@yale.edu).

Conflict of Interest Disclosures: Dr Boatright reported grants from the National Institutes of Health. No other disclosures were reported.

CORRECTION

Error in Table: In the Research Letter titled “Orphanhood and Caregiver Loss Among Children Based on New Global Excess COVID-19 Death Estimates,” published September 6, 2022, there was an error in the Table. The second subheading in the first column should be May 1, 2022. This article was corrected online.

Error in Abstract: The Original Investigation titled “Peripartum Outcomes Associated With COVID-19 Vaccination During Pregnancy: A Systematic Review and Meta-analysis,” published on October 3, 2022, was corrected to fix an error reported in the Abstract; “chorioamnionitis (OR, 1.06; 95% CI, 0.86-1.31)” was updated to “chorioamnionitis (OR, 0.95; 95% CI, 0.83-1.07).” This article was corrected online.

Errors in Supplement: In the Research Letter “Detection of Messenger RNA COVID-19 Vaccines in Human Breast Milk,” published online first on September 26, 2022, there was an error in the eMethods in the Supplement. The study period was in 2021, not 2020. In addition, corrections were made to typographical errors in the eMethods text to fix punctuation and repetition. This article was corrected online.